A New Packing House

Farmers' Co-operative and Educational Union Establishes Plant.

CAMPBELL Local of the Farmers Co-operative and Educational Union has leased for one year with an option on five years, the F. C. Wilson Warehouse on Campbell av. at the railroad crossing. They will begin the installation of a complete packing plant in about two weeks. They will pack only the fruit of members of the association, and expect that to be about 500 tons.

Valley View, Union, Los Gatos, Moorland Locals, together with Campbell Local, will establish the plant.

I understand they have had flattering offers for every bit of fruit which has been pledged.

Campbell in League

A league of several of the amateur baseball players of the valley has been formed. The teams composing the league are Campbell, Meridian Corners, Fan, San Jose Baking Co., Brassy and Co., Sunnyvale and Palo Alto. The delegates met last week and decided to call the league "The Santa Clara Valley Amateur League." They elected A. Mayers, President and B. Anderson Secretary. They will start playing for a pennant a week from Sunday.

Notice to Fruit Growers.

Notice to fruit growers of Campbell and vicinity. We have the agency of many of the largest canneries and commission merchants of San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles. We will be in position to handle a large portion of the green fruit in this section. As we will not have a regular agent in the field, it would be well for the growers to call on us before disposing of their fruits.

Conservation of Our Natural Resources.

A very Vital Part of Our Glorious Country Becoming Exhausted

THE Twenty-third Biennial Report of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Edward Hyatt, brings up the question of Natural Resources, Their Waste and Conservation, so vividly and shows the terrible future in store for us so plainly that I can but reproduce sections of the report and make comment upon, with the hope that some of our people will wake up and take notice. Had I a piece of land I would see that no portion of it was wasted or worn out if it was possible to avoid it. But as I have no land all I can do is to arouse public sentiment to the point where the Natural Resources of this country will be protected by the people. This is no fanatical notion, it is common sense, and worthy of ALL the agitation every citizen can stir up. It is, in my estimation of more importance than the Temperance question (though I thoroughty believe in the Prohibition movement) and this and other articals on the same subject should be carefully read, studied and ACTED UPON AT ONCE. I believe that every conciention newspaper editor, teacher, parent and landowner owes it to his own self, his loved ones and his country to further this cause to the best of his ability.

Edward Hyatt says—During the past year I have become possessed by the idea that the largest, the most truly patriotic, the most vitally important movement in this nation today is the one looking to the Conservation of our Natural Resources. This has been large enough to call together a Conference of Governors, to cause the appointment of a National Commission, aud to engage the earnest attention, the gravest concern of the greatest and most brilliant minds of our continent. It is patriotic, for it looks to the preservation of our fatherland into the future with its power and glory undimmed. It is vitally important, for without it our nation is doomed to go down to poverty and weakness. It is unselfish, for it looks forward to the welfare of those who come after us, rather than for our own little personal benefit now. It is a vital and worthy thing, however we view it.

Just what does it mean—this Conservation of Natural Resources? Why it means simply the wise care and use of our forests, our mines, our water, our soil. These are the fundamental sources of wealth that have been given to us by nature. Why is our nation one of the greatest in all the world? Is it because we are stronger people, better people than the rest of the world? Not at all. It all rests upon the wonderful, the amazing natural resources of North America. The great fortunes, the great cities, the great achievements of this nation, past and future, all depend upon our natural resources.

Whence comes the money of the thousands of rich Americans who set all Europe agape? Whence come the funds to constrnct the great sky-scrapers, to rebuild ruined cities, to make fleets of warships, transcontinental railroads, interoceanic canals and other titanic undertakings that we are continually carrying out? It all comes from American copper or wheat or lumber or coal or oil or gas or iron; or from the railroads or ships hauling these things; or from trading with the people who work in these things; or from the utilities of the cities that grow upon these things. Everything in all our power and civilization and luxury goes straight back to our natural storehouses of wealth. And we got them so easily that we do not even appreciate them as yet. But suppose these storehouses were gone, or nearly empty? What would American enterprise amount to if it had nothing to exploit? What figure does a poverty-stricken nation cut in the world? What rich and populous nations in history have not gone down into groveling insignificance by squandering their natural resources?

Up to date we have been careless, heedless children with all our resources, giving them away, destroying them, wasting them with lavish hands, and with no thought of the morrow. He who can destroy most of our public property in the shortest time most excites our childish admiration. we have been busily playing our little games, paying no attention while some of the boys have set the house afire. But now an awakening seems to be coming. Its first tangible appearance was a Conference of Governors of the states and territories of the United States at the White House in Washington. Very many of the wisest and ablest men of the United States took part in this Conference—statesmen, philosophers, captains of Industry. The Conference was followed in June by the formation of a National Conservation Commission of forty-eight members appointed by the President.

This National Commission is now at work. It is the plan that many commissions and associations throughout the states of the Union shall be formed to work with it, either upon Conservation as a whole or upon some phase of the subject vital to the particular locality. The results of this work are to be reported from time to time to the state legislatures and to the United States Congress; and made the basis for a wide and harmonious system of laws governing our Natura Resources.

But this wise and patriotic plan will fall down utterly, will come to naught, will turn to ashes in our grasp—unless it can be backed up, supported, urged on by a strong, stearn, unsteeping Public Opinion.

Therefore it is that the matter must be carried to the people, to the teachers, to the children. They must learn the facts and form their sentiments and see their duty. Commissions and legislatures can accomplish nothing unless we can wake the patriotic spirit of the people. The movement for conservatism can go no farther than public opinion will carry it; but it will go fully as far as public sentiment and public opinion will go.

Aristotle says, "All who have meditated on the art of governing mankind have been convinced that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth."

A Desirable Citizen

HAVE you ever singled out a certain individual and studied him, summed up his good qualities and watched him in his work, his play and his rest. If you never have, you miss half there is in life. There is more enjoyment, and more of the right spirit can be enthused into a person, by taking another individual, and comparing him with yourself, than can be gotten by a year's hard knocks. The other day I asked myself, when I had a few leisure moments, how many citizens of Campbell are honest workers, quiet and not trying to shout from the housetops, "I am IT, look what I can do" and instantly I could think of a score.

So I singled out one man and watched him for several days. I was so surprised with the many little things in his makeup that I resolved to tell you about him.

This man is J. H. Neff, one of our local blacksmiths. Did you ever meet him on the street and fail to get a cheery "Good Morning?" Mr. Neff is honestly one of the finest optimists I ever saw. For almost fifteen years he has been in business here in Campbell. He has stuck to his work day in and day out, always at your service, smiling when work was good and smiling when it was dull. Almost every week day he has been at his shop from seven in the morning until six at night, rain or shine, cold or hot.

But Mr. Neff has not been in the shop he now is in, all this time. No indeed, that has a history by itself. At first, when he came here he worked for another man at a forge in the building where he now is. There used to be two forges there some time ago, and Mr. Neff worked at the one which has been since removed. At one time he and Mr. J. C. Lloyd, another of our finest citizens, were in business together. After a while Mr. Neff sold his share to Mr. Lloyd and started a shop of his own. Did you ever notice the neat pyramid of old horseshoes in his shop? They represent the amount of horseshoeing done in that shop since March. But it doesn't show how many horses have been shod that come into the shop without shoes on.

But what makes him a desirable citizen you say? Well I'll tell you. First: he is industrious. Second: he is willing to help a fellow mortal when he is down and out. Third: he minds his own business. And fourth: he loves his family. What more can be desired in a man. Why, if every man in the state of California had half these good points, the whole country would feel the effect.

Mr. Neff at home, is just as industrious and just as cheery. Have you ever seen his home? Of course you have. Isn't it noted all over the State of California? And for what? Simply because it's owner is industrious. He has one of the finest gardens of flowers, both common and rare varieties, and cactus of several hundred kinds, that can be found anywhere. His cactus garden had at one time the largest collection in the state.

Probably Mr. Neff could not have done all this had it not been for his partner, Mrs. Neff. Surely she is a good woman, for she has shared her husband's cheerfulness, industry and love for many years. They both are ideal citizens. Give us a few more like them.

The Prune Situation

THAT the control of prices of farm products should rest with the farmer has been proven to them over and over again by those who have their interest at heart, but the farmer seems to consider the rapidly depreciating values in fruit with that same degree of dispair and helplessness that he views the drying up of his crops from lack of moisture, not seeming to realize that he has the power to stop the former, and turn it on the up grade. Eastern dealers who want to see the prune market more active, have been telling the farmers, through the many journals and newspapers, that if he will hold for better prices, if the eastern dealer could feel sure that the prices would not fall lower after he had purchased, then would prosperity return in abundance.

Yet, the farmer says that if he holds, the rest will sell and leave him with last year's crop on his hands. True enough, that is precisely what would happen. But that is not the way to go about it. Organization is the stepping stone to success. All large industries are organized, and for what. Is it not so that better prices for their output may be realized? The farm is the only one of the more vital industries of our country that has not organized. It seems very peculiar that a lot of men who have nothing to do with the growing of the crops, should control the market and live off of the profit which should go to the farmer.

But the crisis has come. Something must be done. It is no longer possible to make a fair profit out of the land under existing conditions. Organization is springing up among the farmers and if they stick together success is assured.

In years gone by prunes from the Santa Clara Valley were worth to the grower from 2 to 3 cents a pound on the trees, and then was the time of prosperity. But now a grower considers himself lucky to be able to get a 3 cent basis for his fruit.

A New York firm says: "It seems to us remarkable that a few years ago, when we used to import cask Turkish prunes, which were almost unfit to eat, yet sold at 6 and 7 cents per pound, and the Freneh boxed prunes, which used to sell from 12c to 17c per pound wholesale, that the California artical, which is fully equal to the French and far superior to the Turkish should be selling at the prices they are, all because of the lack of proper handling of the business by the growers themselves, and, in our judgement, the time is now right for a unity of action, which, if not carried too far by temporary success, would mean a profitable business at a fair margin for all concerned and much more satisfaction for the buyers and brokers who trade in the article."

That now is the best time to hold for better prices is shown when the fact is considered that the large surplus stock of prunes which has been supplying the country for the past two years has become exhausted and the dealers and consumers MUST buy this year, and will take the lowest figures offered. If the farmer sees that these figures are big enough he will not have to worry about his living this winter. The Farmers Co-operative and Educational Union seems to have gotten things well started and if they succeed this year, every farmer in the valley will join in with them.

Fresno.—J. B. Hancock, former tax collector of this county and a pioneer of the State, died suddenly at his home on a ranch near here, supposedly from a stroke of apoplexy. Hancock came to California forty years ago, and for eight years was tax collector here. He was 68 years of age.

Stockton.—The gain in per cent of building permits of late shows that Stockton was the second city on the coast, Tacoma having the highest percentage of gain. For this and the coming months large contracts have already been let, and it is expected that throughout the summer there will be a lot of building.

Oakland.—Weighing one and three-quarter pounds, at Providence Hospital is the smallest fully developed baby ever born in this State, so far as available records show. The child, a girl, was born July 12 to Mrs. John Legris, and the physicians declare that it has the baby's usual chance of reaching mature years.

Bakersfield.—Rivalry between undertakers here for the privilege of burying the pauper dead of the county resulted in the unique offer by one of the rival bidders to pay the sum of 1 mill per body for burial within a radius of 15 miles from the courthouse, the bonus to increase to $1 for deceased indigents outside this limit.

Sacramento.—To smooth the ruffled feelings of Mrs. Anna Marsh, a pretty young widow, who was ousted from her position as claims clerk for the Board of Supervisors on July 1st, the board has created a new position with a salary of $75 a month for her. Under her new position Mrs. Marsh will compile all the county ordinance.

Napa.—R. L. Agers, resident of Foss valley, Napa county, is suing for $25,000 damages from Dr. Z. Hennessy of this city. Agers claims that in January, 1908, he broke his leg and that Dr. Hennessy was summoned to attend him. He claims that Hennessy treated him for five months, but so unskillfully that the bone of the leg did not knit, but instead wasted away. Agers says that he is now permanently crippled.

Seattle.—The total attendance for the first forty-two days of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition passed the million mark, the grand total being 1,015,272. This surpasses the record of the Lewis and Clark Exposition and also of the Jamestown Exposition. Sacramento.—Butchers and bakers throughout the State who do not clean up their shops and keep them in sanitary condition will be prosecuted by Dr. F. W. Snow, State Health Officer. As soon as complaints come to Dr. Snow he investigates them, either in person or through a deputy, and gives warning to the proprietor to clean up or go to jail. One warning is generally sufficient. Most of the complaints have been in Southern California. Under the McCartney pure food law proprietors who keep unsanitary shops are liable to prosecution.

GROWS FINE TOBACCO ON STATE UNIVERSITY GROUNDS

Professor Setchell's Experiments Meet With Great Success.

Berkeley.—Tobacco, as good as the finest North Carolina leaf, has been grown on the campus of the University of California, and Professor W. A. Setchell, head of the department of botany, is engaged in a series of experiments to determine the economic value of the leaf, grown under local conditions.

The planting of tobacco on the campus began several years ago, but owing to a press of other work, was not given sufficient attention to constitute a fair test. A new leaf has recently been experimented with, and the results are said to indicate that success is within reach of the university experts. The tobacco produced has been excellent in flavor and compares well with the Turkish and native varieties.

Martial Law in Honduras.

New Orleans.—Martial law has been declared all along the coast of Spanish Honduras, according to Dr. Timoteo Miralda, former Minister of Honduras to Nicaragua, who arrived here a few days ago from Central America. Dr. Miralda asserts the failure of the government to pay its soldiers and officials sums demanded and the attempt to take possession of certain property by the latter precipitated the trouble. The prospective revolutionists are said to have been speedily dispersed by government forces.

Mrs. Belmont Ardent Suffragist.

New York.—That Mrs. Alvah E. Belmont, widow of O. H. P. Belmont, is greatly in earnest in her support of the cause of woman suffrage is indicated by her lease for a long term of years of the entire seventeenth floor of a large office building on Fifth avenue. These will be the offices of the Woman's Suffrage League, and from there an extensive and costly campaign throughout the country will be conducted. Mrs. Belmont is guaranteeing all expenses. The floor also will contain the clubrooms for the women.

W. P. Building Freight Sheds.

The site upon which the sheds are to be built has already been graded so that the work can proceed without delay. It is expected that the sheds will be completed within sixty days. The foundations are to be of concrete.

U. C. Teaching Forestry.

Berkeley.—Government forestry experts have commenced a series of lectures at the summer session of the university which will be continued to the end of the session. To Reimburse Postmaster.

Spokane, Wash.—Seized with an epileptic fit while milking her cows and falling face downward in a pile of barn refuse, Mrs. Gladys May Potter suffocated to death.

Taft Insists Tariff Revision Must Be Downward

Washington.—All doubt as to where President Taft stands with regard to the downward revision of the tariff has been swept away. A statement was given out at the White House setting forth in detail what the President had to say to twenty-three Republican members of Congress who called to protest against putting raw materials on the free list. The President in this statement declared that the Republican party is committed to a downward revision; that he has never had any other idea of the Chicago platform, and that he personally has promised a downward revision to the people.

This statement is interpreted in some quarters here as a direct notification to the conferees on the tariff bill that if the measure they finally agree upon does not constitute a material reduction in specific duties, the President will exercise his power of veto.

Dictated in the third person, the statement concludes with this final word of the President's attitude as outlined to his callers:

"He felt strongly the call of the country for a downward revision within the limits of the protective principles, and he hoped to be able to respond to that call as he heard it, as well in the interests of the party as of the country."

Many of the Congressmen who composed the delegation represent Southern districts. They told the President they had been elected on the theory that they would protect raw materials in which their people were interested, and that if the party failed to do this their districts would return to the Democratic column.

Taft listened patiently to all that was said, he chaffed the Congressmen good naturedly at times. Representative Hayes of California made a speech in favor of protecting iron ore, for instance, but the President said he suspected Hayes of being chiefly interested in lemons.

When the discussion was over, the President stated his position. He said he favored protection where protection was necessary, and that where protection no longer was needed, he was in favor either of greatly reducing the duty or of removing it altogether.

Point Arena Has an Epidemic of Broken Legs.

Point Arena.—While on his way to set the broken leg of B. Overton, Dr. A. D. Pitts of this place was thrown from his rig at 9 o'clock at night and lay helpless in the ditch by the side of the road until 5 o'clock the next morning. He was found by Dr. F. Biddle, another physician, who was also going to set a patient's leg. Biddle set Pitts' injured limb and took him back to town in his automobile, and, after seeing him comfortably fixed in the hospital, started back to visit his original patient.

This time he had not gone far when he picked up Mrs. H. Hirsh, whose team had become frightened at an automobile and had run away, throwing her out and also breaking her leg. Biddle assisted her in a near-by farmhouse, and, after setting her limb, finally went on to his waiting patient, whom he found on his arrival had passed away. On his way back to town he stopped at the Overton home and set the leg of the head of the house, who had been waiting many hours for the visit.

County Fairs Will Receive No Assistance From State

Sacramento.—A wrong interpretation of the law passed by the last Legislature has led country people in all parts of the state to believe that there is $5000 in the state treasury for them to spend on premiums on district fairs and as a result numerous demands for portions of the money have been made upon Acting Secretary J. W. Kavanaugh of the State Agricultural Society. Kavanaugh has replied to all inquiries that there is no appropriation for the purpose and advises a more careful reading of the bill.

The wording in the bill is misleading. It says: "The Board shall have the power to advance a sum, not exceeding $5000, to pay premiums out of any money that may be appropriated to the State Agricultural Society." It happens, however, that no money was appropriated to the State Agricultural Society and consequently there is no money for county fairs.

Taft and Diaz May Shake Hands on Boundary Line

Washington.—A meeting between President Taft and President Diaz of Mexico now being practically assured for about the middle of October, the President and his Cabinet are giving some attention to arrangements for carrying out such an unusual and notable event. Exchanges are in progress between the two executives, Taft, it is said, having taken the initiative in expressing a wish that the heads of the two great republics of North America might come together. Suggestions have been made that the two executives clasp hands under a canopy erected midway of the international bridge at El Paso or that they in turn visit either shore and extend their good wishes at those places.

Drowned in Undertow.

Long Beach.—An attempt to rescue a girl from drowning here proved fatal to James Taylor, a storekeeper of Clearwater, Cal., who was himself caught in the undertow and carried out to sea. His body was not recovered. Margaret Dougan, aged 17, while bathing, was caught in a hole in deep water. Taylor went to her assistance and fell in the same hole. The girl was able to swim and made her way to shore, but Taylor did not know how to swim and perished.

Fighting Alfalfa Pest.

Marysville.—Warnings have been received here from Orland to the effect that alfalfa's deadly enemy has appeared in Glenn county and is giving promise of a long fight before it will be eradicated. The dodder is the name of this pest, and it springs up in alfalfa fields, attaching itself to the alfalfa stems after getting started and breaks itself loose from the ground. In the mountains dodder is said to be feeding on wild pea vines and sage brush.

WANTS COUNTY AUDITORS TO HAVE UNIFORM SYSTEM

State Controller Nye Urges Officials to Change Bookkeeping Methods.

Sacramento.—As a step toward having a uniform system of accounts adopted by the county auditors all over the State, State Controller A. B. Nye has mailed circular letters telling them of the new system adopted by the State. No systematic reports are now kept by the different counties as to the amount of money each collects from road, poll, hospital and property taxes and there is no record of the amount spent on schools, bridge work, road work, etc. In order that these items may be kept in a uniform system, Nye has mailed to each auditor a chart to be followed in the proposed new system. By the aid of the chart when the reports are made it will be an easy matter to obtain totals.

Union Men Provide Skin for Grafting.

Oakland.—One of the most remarkable cases of skin grafting on record is that which Dr. Ergo Majors of Oakland performed on George Heyne, electrician of the Great Western Power Company, who, a short time ago, suffered the loss of a large part of his skin through an accident at the power plant. The skin which was grafted onto Heyne's body was taken from the arms of six members of his union, who volunteered for the operation. More than eighty square inches of skin were removed from them and transplanted to the raw portions of Heyne's body.

Prompt Payment for Guardsmen.

Sacramento.—The militiamen who went to McCloud to quell the lumber strikers will get their money sooner than anticipated, according to Attorney-General Webb, who says that claims can be paid out of the $100,000 emergency fund created by the last legislature. All that is necessary is the governor's order. The pay due the militiamen has been held up through an uncertainty as to the fund to be drawn on. This makes it unnecessary to put the bills through the State Board of Examiners by the regular routine.

Terry McGovern Insane.

New York.—A shadow of his old self, Terry McGovern, once featherweight champion pugilist of the world, has been taken to a sanatorium at Amityville, L. I. "I want to go home; I want to go home," he pleaded, when friends tried to get him into the automobile that was to take him away. After much persuasion he agreed to go if his mother would ride in the car with him. McGovern has been in the observation ward of the Kings County Hospital since his arrest last week.

Quake in Greece Kills Many.

London.—Special dispatches received here from Athens say that 300 persons were killed or injured by the earthquake that occurred last week in the province of Elis in Southern Greece. The damage to property also was very great. Hot water is flowing today from many of the springs in the stricken district, while the water in the rivers and brooks has turned a red-dish color.

Prospector Returns to Life.

San Bernardino.—Joseph Wilson, a prospector, found by a Santa Fe train crew on the desert and carried to Barstow as dead, surprised the Coroner by suddenly coming to life, and is now in the County Hospital with good chances of recovery. Wilson had been prostrated by the heat after tramping two days over the desert.

High Price for Tomcat.

ENGLAND'S UNEMPLOYED.

Business Depression Not the Only Cause of Failure to Get Work.

The condition of the unemployed is one of the big questions of the day in the United Kingdom, says an exchange. In Edinburgh the vice-chairman of the distress committee in an address delivered a short time ago gives his views on the causes and possible remedies for the evil.

Unemployment, he believes, was aggravated by the recent trade depression, but was not caused by it. He said that there was a class of men who best could be described as unemployable, comprising the "corner man," the loafer, the tramp, the begging impostor and the man who will not take work.

"The most fertile source of breeding these classes," the speaker continued, "is an indiscriminate and ill-administered charity."

Among other causes of the growth of these classes he mentioned excessive drinking, a "faulty educational system, which too often develops intellect without any training of character, forgetful that intellect may increase a man's capacity for evil as well as his capacity for good," and finally a "growing habit of indolence and self-indulgence, which are sapping some of the best root qualities of the national character and are causing a consequent weakening of moral force and will power."

Amos' Anodyne.

"We always wondered a little how Amos Dore and his wife got along—really," "Aunt Em" Macomber said, frankly. "Some in the neighborhood said they'd never overheard a single loud or cross word on either side, but Lije Daniels always stuck to it that Amos was as mis'able at home as a man could be.

"He never spoke right out till Amos died and Mis' Dore went back upcountry to her folks. Then he let out."

"What?" queried Aunt Em's visitor.

"Well, Amos worked logging alongside of Lije every winter, and summers they hayed together most always, and it seems," said Aunt Em, impressively, "that Amos complained of his shoes hurting him about all the time. Finally Lije asked why he wore tight shoes.

"'Why don't you get a pair big enough?' says Lije, one day.

"'Well, I'll tell you,' Amos says. 'When I wear tight shoes I forget all my other troubles.'"

Doesn't Work Both Ways?

The long-haired orator had gathered a little crowd around him in one of the public parks and was making a fervid political speech.

"Yez'll have to stop that," said one of the sparrow cops, sauntering up to him. "We don't allow that kind o' talkin' in this pa'ark, sor."

"I see!" roared the orator, descending from his soap box. "You want to keep your park system in politics, but you won't allow politics in your park system!"

Glorious Victory.

"You had a political debate in your district school building last Saturday night, Uncle Sime, I understand. How did it go off?"

"We win. Whenever the other fellers tried to talk we turned loose two dozen cowbells, a lot o' fishhorns, a bugle, a bass drum, an' a horse fiddle, an' they guv it up an' quit. By George, they didn't git to say a blamed word!"

STORY OF THE CHESAPEAKE.

Was One of the Factors Which Led to the War of 1812.

The Chespeake, originally a thirty-eight-gun frigate, built at Norfolk, Va., in 1799, was partly repaired at the Washington navy yard in 1807, and in June of that year, under the command of Captain Barron, poorly equipped and insufficiently manned she started from Hampton roads across the Atlantic on a training cruise, says the New York Herald. When well out to sea she was stopped by the British frigate Leopard, of fifty guns, whose commander demanded that Captain Barron give up a number of British deserters who were alleged to form part of the Chesapeake's crew.

Barron refused to do so or to permit his ship to be searched for them, whereupon the Leopard opened fire, killing three and wounding eighteen of the Americans and seriously crippling the frigate. Only one gun was fired from the Chesapeake and shot with great difficulty and without effect. Barron finally eventually struck his flag and the British reclaimed four deserters, three of whom were native-born Americans who had been impressed into the British service.

The incident caused the greatest excitement in the United States. President Jefferson immediately, July 21, issued a proclamation ordering all British cruisers to depart from American ports and forbidding all intercourse with them and indignantly, through Monroe, demanded redress of the British government, but without avail, which was one of the causes which led up to the war of 1812 and is famous in American history as "the Chesapeake outrage."

During the war of 1812 the Chesapeake cruised in South American waters, but returned to Boston and was placed under the command of Captain James Lawrence. The frigate was repaired under Captain Lawrence's direction, mounted fifty guns and shipped a new crew, and Lawrence was obliged to man her with very unsatisfactory material.

The British frigate Shannon, fifty-two guns, commanded by Captain Philip Vere Broke, who had brought her up to a high state of efficiency, appeared off Boston harbor and on June 1, 1813, the Chesapeake went out to meet her.

The two frigates engaged six leagues east of Boston Light and soon were at close quarters. Captain Lawrence fell, mortally wounded, and as the gallant commander was carried below he exclaimed:

"Don't give up the ship!"

Captain Broke boarded the Chesapeake, and at 6:05 p. m., fifteen minutes after the first gun was fired, her flag was struck, and, it appears, was secured by Midshipman Grundy of the Shannon.

Out of a crew of 379 the Chesapeake lost sixty-one killed or mortally wounded, and had eighty-five severely and slightly wounded, while out of a crew of 320 the Shannon lost thirty-three killed and fifty wounded.

The Chesapeake was taken as a prize to Halifax, N. S., was afterward used as a British war vessel and in 1820 was sold as old timber.

The British sometimes refer to the war of 1812 as the "war of the Chesapeake."

Forebodings.

The stork was despondent.

"If I've got to spend all my time," she said, "in looking after the babies of the human race, I shall have to neglect my own little bipeds, and the stork family will become extinct."

Still, she extracted some consolation from the fact that in the exclusive residence districts and in the first-class apartment houses she had almost nothing to do.—Chicago Tribune.

Men Now Candy Lovers.

But a few years ago women used to be jeered at and even reproved for their craze for goodies, and a man who was seen eating sweets was accounted a rather poor thing. Now figures are showing that the consumption of sugar is increasing, while the amount of alcohol is declining. This is explained by the fact that men of all classes eat sweetmeats much more than they did and that whenever a people eat largely of sugar they take less intoxicants.

STUDENTS

contemplating a shorthand or business course should send to GALLAGHER-MARSH BUSINESS COLLEGE, 1256 Market street, for literature containing the views of the PRESS OF SAN FRANCISCO on the marvelous proficiency attained by the students of this college, as demonstrated before Judge Cabaniss and the press on June 26, 1909, when they wrote in shorthand over 200 words per minute on strange matter. Just think of it? Girls 15 to 17 years old writing over 200 words per minute, and being also competent bookkeepers. This wonderful skill is due to superiority of GALLAGHER-MARSH shorthand system and also to the fact that Mr. Gallagher actually imparts his world record stenographic skill to his students.

FIFTEENTH YEAR, — No. 2

I have decided to drop the conventional "we" from the Press.

Wouldn't you like to do as much business this winter as you are doing now? There's a way.

Read every bit of the artical on "Conservation of Natural Resources" on the the front page. It is vital.

I hope my brother editors will help as much as possible to arouse public opinion on this great queetion, "The Conservation of National Resources." It is a grave and serious danger which we are confronting.

The Los Gatos Mail says, "The Campbell Interurban Press starts off this week on its fifteenth year. The latest editor in line—M. Earle Adams—stretches up to his full six feet ten, spits on his hands, and doubles up his fists and says b'gosh, he'll make a bigger and better paper of the Press the coming year whether the natives are willing to help or not. That's the proper "spirit," Adams; push the old thing along good and hard and along about Thanksgivin' time you'll be able to take in that new partner." Say, Bro. Smith, what do you know about the price of onions?
